

INFORMATION LITERACY STATEMENT FOR COURSE OUTLINES

Information Literacy is a valuable set of skills that empowers students to become agile information seekers who adapt to changing modes of information delivery and are selective, critical, ethical users of information in all formats. These skills are embedded within course work throughout academic programs.

*[The Information Literacy statement aligns with the College's commitment to the pursuit of Lifelong Learning. As of January 2012 the statement is required in all course syllabi and provides the framework for any instructor to integrate Information Literacy Competency Standards into any course, in every program of study.
